Boys, Girls Club site opens in Upland

By Suzanne Sproul

Her young fans stood around hoping to catch a quick glance and smile from her.

But Upland television and movie star Nedra Volz has never been one to sit back and stay aloof. She instead got some of the children involved in a quick game on the pool table she donated to the new Boys and Girls Club of the Inland Empire site at Los Olivos, the Upland Housing Authority low-income housing complex in Upland.

"The pool table was in good condition and it wasn't being used at my house so I decided to give it away. I asked Coy (Estes, Upland Police chief) if he knew of any Boys Club that needed a pool table and he suggested Los Olivos," Volz said.

Volz said she enjoyed presenting the pool table to the club and meeting some of her fans.

"I must have signed 150 to 200 autographs that day. I think organizations like this are needed. I thought if I could do something good with that old pool table, that would be wonderful," she said.

Since the Campus Avenue site opened about three weeks ago, about 200 children have signed up to participate in the various club programs, according to Robin Armstrong, Boys and Girls Club of the Inland Empire administrative assistant.

Actress Nedra Volz readies for a shot on the pool table she donated to the new Upland site of the Boys and Girls Club of the Inland Empire.

"We're an alternative to the streets. We're the club that beats the streets," said Thor Dykstra, organization executive director. "We service all children but especially youth at risk. Here children learn responsibility. They learn to share. They learn good sportsmanship and honesty."

The club also oversees operations at two other locations at Bear Gulch School in Rancho Cucamonga and Vernon Junior High School in Montclair.

"The club is not a day care center. Basically we are a youth guidance agency offering various programs to West Valley children," Armstrong said.

For an annual membership of $1, children are given a place to go, have fun with youngsters their own age and participate in various scheduled activities. Ten staff members run the operation at the three sites.

Each site is designed for young people of various ages and is open different hours. The following is the summer schedule: Los Olivos, ages 6 to 16, open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday; Bear Gulch School, ages 7 to 14, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday; and Vernon Junior High School, ages 7 to 14, open noon to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Upland Housing Authority program shelved

By Diana E. Lundin

The Upland Housing Authority's latchkey child care program has been shelved until it can find a more equitable method of reimbursement.

Xenia I. Szabo, the housing authority's executive director, said a bill that would amend the way the state funds the program sits on the governor's desk awaiting his signature.

"We don't know what way it will go," Szabo said. "We hear it's possible but we're not holding our breath."

Szabo refuses to sign a new agreement with the state, fearing the housing authority may end up in the same situation that caused the child care program's demise June 29.

Last June, the Upland City Council gave the latchkey program $20,000, essentially bailing it out of a financial mess the state created when it only partially reimbursed the housing authority.

Szabo does not want to risk placing the housing authority — which administers the program — in a position where it's responsible for the child care bills.

She said, "The housing authority is in the business to provide housing, not child care."

Besides the change in reimbursement, Szabo is looking for a waiver for children whose parents are a part of the non-existent workfare program.

Originally, half of the latchkey children were to be enrolled as part of the workfare program while the other half were from low-income families with government subsidies.

However, the workfare program never materialized but the housing authority still had to pay the full $53,000 start-up costs while the state reimbursed it only $33,000.

"We were losing money from two sources," Szabo said. The program lost money from children who never enrolled and because the state reimbursed the program for hourly enrollment, rather than daily enrollment.

On the brighter side, the defunct latchkey program has been somewhat replaced by the Boys and Girls Club of the Inland Empire, which has been given space at the housing authority complex.

Szabo said she has seen about 20 of the latchkey children at the Boys and Girls Club.

games, participate in arts and crafts programs or take part in outdoor field games.

One new popular addition to the club's activity menu is Kinko — a type of baseball using a hollowed out bat, ball and pitching machine.

Dystra said teams already have been established and the children are very excited about the game.

The club works with West Valley school districts in order to establish program sites, but eventually it would like to have a central building.

Area of Upland's Eighth Street is narrower, sort of Upland's Eighth Street, between San Antonio Avenue and the eastern city limits, was narrowed recently.

On paper, anyway.

The City Council approved an amendment to its precise plan of streets, that reduces the right-of-way from 100 to 80 and narrows the curb-to-curb street width from 72 feet to 64.

Six feet also was cut out from the parkway and Eighth Street was reclassified from a major to secondary highway.

City Engineer Fred Blanchard said all the trimming was done on paper. "We're reducing a plan, not an actuality," he said.

Valley water companies gear up for heat

By Elrond Lawrence

As the hottest time of the summer nears, West Valley water companies seem ready to take the heat.

Water officials concede summer will bring extra demands but they maintain that restrictions or additional surcharges won't take place in the immediate future.

"We've never had a problem with the summer," said Michael Whitehead, vice president of San Gabriel Water Company, which owns Fontana Union Water Co.

While he said the company has expected a drier-than-average summer this year, he noted the relatively cool weather of the last two months has helped prevent a major increase in water demands.

"I don't foresee any changes or surcharges," Whitehead said.

The company will purchase water from Fontana Water and will draw upon various ground water wells for its main supply, he said. Additional water will come from Lytle Creek.

Calvin Good, a financial controller for the Monte Vista Water District, also expects few unusual problems this summer. He said Tuesday, "We're having no problems coping with the summer."

Good agreed that the relatively cool weather experienced during the last two months has lessened water demands in the Montclair area. However, he said, if this week's 90-degree weather continued, "increasing demands" would follow.

Ninety percent of the district's water comes from underground basins, Good said. He said the district wouldn't buy any additional water this summer.

Similar feelings came from Theo Nowak, general manager of the Chino Groundwater Basin, who also expects few problems from the summer heat. He said he one dry year is not as much to worry about as a series of dry years.

He also said the present water supply is enough to handle the dry season.

"Water conditions have been good," Nowak said Monday. "We're in a little better shape here because of the basin."

While he said last year's dry winter may cause "difficulty in getting replenishment water," he said he expects no problems in maintaining the basin's 8 million acre-feet of groundwater.

"We have it under control," he said.

Unlike other companies, the city of Ontario has found itself with a surplus of water this summer. Michael Teal, director of public services, said the city is selling about 3 million to 4 million gallons a day to Upland and Cucamonga County water districts.

Teal said Tuesday that the water is being sold on an "emergency basis," for double the usual rate.

While he notes the city's 24 underground wells are pumping about 10 percent more water than normal, he expects no unusual problems for the summer, either. "We don't foresee any emergencies, even if temperatures were to stay in the upper 90s," Teal said.

Final EIR, health risk on proposed trash burner due

The final environmental impact report and health risk assessment on the proposed Milliken Landfill trash burner will be made public Aug. 10.

Ina Petokas, a senior planner in San Bernardino County's land management division, said plant proponent Ogden Martin Systems Inc. will miss its original July deadline because of delays in preparing the final health study.

Petokas said county supervisors are scheduled to hold a public hearing on the reports Aug. 24 and make a decision on their adequacy — and thus the fate of the plant — Sept. 14.

The proposed $165 million plant would burn 1,600 tons of trash a day and generated 43 megawatts of electricity for sale to Southern California Edison Co. The plant has drawn heated opposition from Inland Empire residents.

While all water suppliers agree the dry summer will not present any unusual problems, they're still asking customers to conserve the water they get.

"We're very concerned about water conservation," said Jaymie Foote, a water conservation official in the Cucamonga County Water District in Rancho Cucamonga. "We're trying to make everybody water conscious."

Foote said the company hasn't experienced any new problems this summer, but does concur that demand is increasing.

She said Monday the district is asking customers to conserve their water to cope with the dry summer months and to keep up with the increased demand.

Foote said the district gets its water from tunnels in the foothills north of Rancho Cucamonga, and through supply from the Cucamonga and Chino Groundwater Basins. An emergency connection also exists with the Colorado River.

PROTECTING YOUR MEDICAL BENEFITS

The most important step in protecting your right to choose your doctor is to advise your employer "in writing" of the name of your family physician. By doing this, if you are injured on the job, you may then request to be treated by the doctor of your choice, which would be your "family physician." IF YOU DO NOT DO THIS, THEN THE INSURANCE COMPANY MAY CONTROL YOUR TREATMENT FOR THE FIRST THIRTY DAYS.

You may, at any time, request a change of physicians and the insurance company that is controlling your treatment must within five days provide you with a list of four doctors and one chiropractor. You may then choose a physician of your choice from that list.

You are also entitled to get a second opinion if you feel it is required. If, for example, surgery is recommended and you feel that you need a second opinion, you are entitled to be seen by a doctor of your choice in consultation. The insurance company must pay for this consultation.

AFTER THIRTY DAYS, YOU MAY SEE ANY DOCTOR THAT YOU DESIRE. The insurance company will many times object to this, since they like to control the treatment, but as a matter of law, you are entitled after thirty days to be treated by any doctor or chiropractor that you desire.

If your injury is such that you will need medical care for the rest of your life, you can obtain this under California Laws of Workers' Compensation, but you must file a claim and ask for this. This is where your lawyer can assist you. To obtain life time medical treatment, it must be in the form of a court order and most people don't know how to obtain this.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO CONTROL YOUR MEDICAL TREATMENT, AND YOU CAN DO THIS BY FILING WITH YOUR EMPLOYER YOUR LETTER INDICATING YOUR CHOICE OF YOUR TREATING PHYSICIAN. If you fail to do this, then your treatment will be controlled by someone other than you, and that someone is going to be the insurance company.

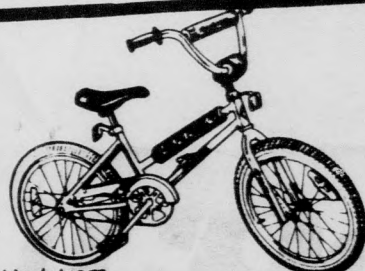

Workers' Compensation is a very specialized field of law, and our office has been handling these cases for over twenty years. If you have any questions regarding your Workers' Compensation benefits, we will be happy to answer your questions without charge.
